Windows 2000, Microsoft finally embraces the Internet at every level of the product, including standardization on TCP/IP—the Transmission Control Protocol/Internet Protocol.