dictionary contains thousands of words familiar to us all, while an encyclopaedia contains with regard to modern thought a vast amount of irrelevant material.